"*Sitting Still"

By: Mussy Levertov

You should never stay still when something is happening, you should do something about it. When Shimon and Levi did not sit still while Dina was kidnapped, they went to save her. You see someone bullying a little girl, you shouldn't just watch or walk away, you should tell the person to stop or tell a grown up or grab the girl away from the person and bring her to safety.

"Never Stay Quiet" by Shaina Wolf

One of the lessons that I think is important is, never stay quiet when something bad is happening. This happened when Shimon and Levi went and killed every single boy in Shechem, and went to save Dina. Yaakov was not very happy about this but Shimon and Levi said, "How can we stay quiet?" This is also a life lesson for us today, when you see something bad happening you should not keep quiet, for an example, when you see someone insulting someone tell them it's not nice and don't talk like that. This is a lesson we should all learn.

"Dina's Mistake" by Mushka Silverman

You must never be bored of learning and you shouldn't get attracted to all these cool things just like Dina. She got bored of all her brothers' learning and she went out to see what's new with all the non Jewish girls. So too now when we have much more to get attracted to and it's a much more strong power from the Yetzer Hara. We must use the same power and strength to avoid the Yetzer Hara.

"Ask First" By Perla Drizin

In the story of Dina, Shimon and Levi didn't ask their father if they could kill the whole city because they were too worried about getting their sister back. This teaches us to ask a parent first before taking or doing something. Example: a girl came home very hungry. She scanned the room for something to eat. She spotted a cookie jar. "Ooh let's take" she thought. Though she wanted a cookie so much she went to ask her parents. Do you think she did the right thing? What would you do?
